Young Couples Exchange Marriage Vows

TAYLOR—WING

A wedding of interest took place Saturday June 13th at the Alberta Temple Cardston, when President E. J. Wood united in marriage Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wing and Dr. Harlan G. Taylor, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Taylor of Raymond.

In the evening a reception was held at the home of the brides parents when over two hundred guests called to offer congratulations to the popular young couple.

Guests were greeted by the grooms parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor. Mrs. Taylor wearing a formal gown of grey crepe and pink rose corsage.

The bride chose for her wedding, a gown of heavy white satin en train which featured a full insert turned skirt, her long veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bride's bouquet was of white roses centred with a mauve orchid.

She wore as her only ornament a six strand pearl necklace. Her bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Taylor, sister of the groom, in blue sheer, carrying pink rose bouquet, her cousin, Miss Katherine Allen in pink.

test, boys and girls pony race, 1/4 mile open race, Dominion Day Derby 1 1/4 miles, roman race, Indian 1/4 mile race and a consolation race.

The prize lists have been out for some time and have been distributed listing the prizes and purses for all events.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left Monday the bride travelling in a grey suit with eblense red top coat and accessories for San Antonio, Texas where the groom will intern for the next year.

RALPH—BASCOM

A pretty summer wedding took place at the home of the bride's grandparents Mr. and Mrs. George E. Court when Hazel Louise Bascom daughter of Mrs. H. R. Snow and the late Raymond Bascom became the bride of Jack L. Ralph, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ralph, all of Raymond.

Bishop J. Golden Snow officiated in the presence of a number of relatives and friends, against a setting of spring flowers and pink and white streamers.

The lovely young bride, who was given in marriage by her stepfather H. R. Snow, wore a gown of white Jerseyane, fashioned with a sweet heart neckline and full skirt. She wore white lace mittens and her finger tip veil was held in place with tiny white feathers. Her bouquet was of red roses and white carnations. Her only jewelry was a gold heart shaped locket.

Her only sister Bernice was maid of honor and was gowned in pink crepe with white lace trim. Her bridesmaid was her aunt Miss Mary Court in pale green jersey. Both wore pink carnation corsages. Raymond Holgerson and Bob Brown supported the groom.

Miss Lela Wing played the wedding march and Miss Geraldine Court sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

After the ceremony a delicious luncheon was served to one hundred guests, the brides table being centred with the lovely three-tiered wedding cake decorated by Mrs. Ruby Holland, aunt of the bride.

For the honeymoon by car to Great Falls the bride changed to a grey pinned stripe suit with black accessories. Upon their return the young couple will make their home on the Ralph Farm south of Raymond.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Art Lund, Mr. and Mrs. Harris of Milk River; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kenny, Picture Butte; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moreland, New-Dayton.

By ELIZABETH KING

We drove by team to Raymond, where we spent our first night in Canada in the home of L. H. Holbrook and wife Alina. This home was later sold to Wm. Redd and is at present occupied by Irene Redd Jensen and family.

The next morning as we followed the wagon tracks over the prairie in the light buggy on our way to Owen and Margaret King's home we were not unhappy but a feeling of quiet and strange loneliness crept over us. We were overwhelmed by the vastness of the grass covered prairies as far as the eye could see. No houses, no fences, no trees, no sign posts, no telephone poles, no land marks of any kind—just green prairie land every where. It was a beautiful sight the stillness and vastness of which is etched in memory. Living as we had in the valleys of the mountains of Utah and Idaho, the sudden change of boundless green beauty was indescribable.

After an enjoyable visit with Owen and Margaret King we left for the home of President Charles Ora Card, president of the Alberta Stake and his charming wife Zina (Young) Card affectionately called Aunt Zina by all who knew her. After Elders King and Burton reported for their missionary labors, President Card proceeded to call me as a missionary to travel with my husband and Elder Burton from Mt. View in the northwest through all towns to Stirling in the eastern part of the Alberta Stake.

President Card and "Aunt Zina" were very kind to the missionaries and made them feel that the latch key was always out for them.

On one of their return visits to the Card home Joseph, then a young lad of 16 years was sitting on the back of a chair reading a book. Elder King remarked "Well, Joseph, judging from the position you are in that book must be very interesting." "Interesting," exclaimed young Joseph, "Why in a few minutes my hair will be standing straight up." Since then Joseph Y. Card has become one of Cardston's most prominent figures both in civic and church affairs. Until recently he was president of western Canadian Mission. He is still taking an active part in Cardston.

On another visit to the Card home Aunt Zina set Elders King and Burton to work picking feathers from wild ducks which caused much merriment. Everyone was busy and happy in the lovely new one year old brick home of President Card and "Aunt Zina".

John W. "Johnny" Woolf's large rock home was headquarters for the missionaries. J. W. Woolf was first MLA for Cardston and served in the legislature both at Regina, capital of the northwest territories and at Edmonton. This same home was occupied by the Walter Pitchers of Cardston, a few years ago.

"Johnny" and wife "Cindy" (Lucinda) were very friendly and many happy hours were spent in this home in music and song. Elder King and Frank Love, brother of "Cindy" played the mandolins while the writer played the piano, the rest joined in song.

Many happy days and nights the missionaries spent in the home of Edward J. Wood and his good wife. After telling missions in the South Sea Islands, which occupied more than nine years of his life President Wood came to Canada with his family in September 1901. Heber J. Grant who at that time was a member of the Twelve had been called to open the Japan mission, and suggested that E. J. Wood go with him but President Lorenzo Snow sent him to Canada instead at the request of President C. O. Card to come up and help in the Stake in putting through the question of a co-operative Mercantile business institution and to be made a member of the High Council in the Alberta Stake. He was also made president of the Ward Y.M.M.I.A. We shall never forget the inspiration and help we received from this cheerful optimistic kind friend to us as missionaries and strangers in a strange land. In 1902 when President Card had to be released on account of his health, Heber S. Allen was appointed to succeed him. Theodore Brandley and E. J. Wood were counsellors and in 1903 the Stake was divided and H. S. Allen was called to preside over the Taylor Stake and E. J. Wood to preside over the Alberta Stake which position he held for 39 years.

After tracing and holding cottage meetings for some time in Cardston we left that field of labor for Mt. View where a meeting was held Sunday afternoon. The wind was blowing at a terrific velocity and at one time during the services the walls and ceiling of the little log church swayed and creaked as if it would fall asunder.

People in the congregation jumped to their feet and Elder King, who with Elder Burton and myself were sitting behind the pulpit, jumped to his feet and was half way down the aisle when some one called out: Elder King, you've forgotten your bride. This seemed to break the tension and the meeting went on to its conclusion.

This wind did much damage in Mountain View and the M.I.A. missionaries were wont to believe some of the stories about the winds in Canada such as: "Chickens often were blown up against board fences and remained there until they starved to death".

The writer was on the verge of having pneumonia after this wind storm and was carefully nursed back to health by Mrs. Alvin O. Rich who lived in Mountain View at that time and whose family later moved to Magrath where Alvin O. Rich passed away a few years ago. I have called Eliza Rich my Canadian mother and now that she is ill in our local hospital I would like to tenderly nurse her as she did me in 1901.

Alvin Rich taught school in our old home town in 1877 when Louis King, then a young lad, attended his school. Fourteen years later in Mt. View Mr. Rich called this same old roll and Louis answered "present".

After leaving Mt. View the party visited the towns in between and then went back to Cardston and on November 9th, 1901 the Alberta Stake Superintendent of the M.I.A. J. W. Low and wife Lucinda, the Stake President Y.L.M.I.A. Zina Y. Card, Elders Burton King and wife Elizabeth left Cardston for the purpose of organizing the M.I.A. in Raymond. Upon arriving we were invited to eat supper in the restaurant of H. A. Jones where we met Apostle John W. Taylor and "Uncle Jesse" Knight. We all ate out of tin plates and drank from tin cups but what difference did that make? The food was excellent, especially the juicy tender beef steaks. What the little band of pioneers lacked in comfort and convenience they made up in friendliness service and good will.

There were many important things to be done in the little hamlet at this time and days and evenings meetings were held from Nov 8 to Nov 10 inclusive.

It was Sunday November 10, 1901 as has heretofore been recorded that we all met in the Store of Chas Mc Carthy where Raymonds first bishop presided over his first meeting and where the young men's and young women's mutuals were organized. In the evening a meeting was held in Stirling where Zina Y. Card, Mr. and Mrs. Woolf, Elders Burton, King and Elizabeth King were the speakers. The party stayed at the homes of Theodore Brandley, John Gordon and Mark Cannon. After visiting the homes of the saints and holding cottage meetings they returned to head quarters. On one of these trips the writer's pretty new hat blew off in a Canadian wind, true to type then as now, and began rolling across the frozen prairies headed for points east at a speed known only to prairie winds. The precious hat was never seen again.

Elders Burton, King and wife were released as missionaries the latter part of March 1902. Then Burton left at once for his home in Utah. We packed our trunks ready to return home when a letter was received from Thomas O. King Sr. saying he felt strongly impressed to advise us to remain in Canada as there were more opportunities for young people in a new land. Upon the strength of that letter we unpacked our belongings and remained in Canada.

In the spring of 1902 T. O. King Jr. and Louis D. went into the Mercantile business. In the fall September 16 Wm. Wood, butcher and father of President E. J. Wood of Cardston was invited to the home of L. D. King for dinner but the storm got there first with his little baby boy. At this time D. H. Elton was editor of the Cardston News. The following was clipped from his paper:

"We understand that a stranger walked into King Bros. at Raymond last Wednesday and inquired, 'What is the price of prunes?' '12 cents' replied the genial Louis. 'What is sugar worth?' the customer asked. '12 cents', 'and butter?' '12 cents' 'and fruit?' '12 cents' Well said the visitor, Is this a 12 cent store? Oh explained manager King, 'I was meditating upon that 12 pound boy which arrived at my house yesterday' The inquirer laughed and the band played 'A' hail the King' (To be continued)

RAYMOND'S A.M.A. STATION

My Week

by R. J. Deachman

We watch our greatest tragedies—look smug and pass by on the other side. Great fires have been making headway in the forests of Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba. These forests were centuries in the making. They pass in a day and those now living will never see them again in all their glory.

In many trips east and west I have watched these trees, snuggled down under blankets of snow in winter, lovely in their lush beauty in the summer, gorgeous in their autumn foliage, bleak now in their incomparable misery. What a price the future will pay for the tragedies of these years of carelessness.

Can anything be done about it? Oh yes, more fire towers to watch incipient fires, roads to reach through the fire areas and above all a campaign to drive into the minds of all those who go near these forests that it is a crime against humanity to tolerate even the shadow of a fire, unless perfectly guarded.

Then why not something to replace these burnt out areas? There are thousands of acres in this Ontario if only for growing trees—they should be turned into municipal forests. There are spots along every highway where a windbreak of trees would be a great benefit as a protection against drifts in winter, a source of timber in future years. Here and there are old graveyards, long since abandoned. They should be planted with maples and elms, a monument far more fitting than one to the great men, the pioneers, who cleared the forests. Then going one step forward why not in every township at least a hundred acres of solid bush as a memorial to the daring men who came here when Canada was a wilderness. They were the makers of Canada—to them all glory and honor.

Then British Columbia and its floods! Floods are controllable. This is the type of thing which governments should direct their attention. It comes within the natural ambit of their powers. If it is not done then recurring floods will put the danger areas under a terrible disadvantage. The threat becomes more or less a permanent nightmare, a blight which will destroy even the richest areas over a period of years.

A this looks as if I were preaching a sermon. I am not, but if I were, what's wrong with my text? This is an age in which we are obsessed with the idea of social services applied to almost every phase of life but if, by our inaction, we neglect the more important problem, the increase of our capacity to produce, what then will happen to us and our social services.

But let me turn to a lighter matter. Once years ago I roomed with a young lawyer down on Beach Ave., Vancouver, we decided one Saturday to go up the river for a trip, Agassiz or Harrison Hot Springs. It's so long ago I am not quite sure which place it was. We were young then, neither of us was married until some years later. I registered for both of us and before the name of my friend I wrote the abbreviation "Rev.". Just before I left I glanced over the hotel register to see if I knew any of the fresh arrivals and that room mate of mine had written after my name these words, "and wife." Yet he was one of the finest men I ever knew.

a word about Personal Purchases in the U.S.

• If you are contemplating a trip to the United States, here are two important facts to remember:

• You may not bring back with you any merchandise which is prohibited under the Emergency Exchange Conservation Act. Find out in advance from Canadian Customs officials whether you may bring in any contemplated purchase.

• To conserve all available U.S. dollars for essential purchases, a travel ration of $150 U.S. per person for the 12 months between Nov. 15, 1947 and Nov. 15, 1948 has been established. Be sure to get the necessary forms and details at your bank, well in advance of your trip.

This caution is given to help avoid possible embarrassment at border points.

To top off the day the Lions, who are sponsoring the show this year have arranged for Stan Francis and an all star cast including Russ Titus, The Windsors, Mildred Morey, Dorothy Merrill, Johnny Loxton and a 10 piece orchestra.

The special night show attraction will be staged at the Stampede grounds commencing at 8 o'clock. Reserved seats are now on sale at Cards Coal Office.

There will also be a dance in the evening on the Open Air Pavilion. It will be one big day so jam packed with action, excitement and entertainment. Of course it will start off with the big parade in the morning at ten.

Plan now to attend Raymond's Stampede and Race Meet and be sure to come early.

GOOD BUSINESS

It has been disclosed here that Canada's first International Trade Fair held at Toronto saw 1500 exhibitors representing most countries of the world take part and many have done good business in face of rumors to the contrary though it is learned officially that some did not do so well. "That is bound to happen," said a spokesman for the government, Trade Minister Howe. "I have talked to a good many exhibitors and, by and large, they are happy about the Fair and intend to return next year. But there are those whose goods are priced out of line and they are not able to sell them. I understand that that is true of a few English firms."

"The real test of the Fair will come next year when we see how many exhibitors of this year will pay the fees for the privilege of exhibiting next year. All the information we have now is that the Fair next year will be even more successful."

Without committing himself whether or not the Fair will be an annual affair, Mr. Howe stated Canada is going to hold the Fair next year anyhow.

PROPOSED SCHEME

It is reported here that the Canadian government has proposed a scheme to all provinces whereby if they spend 25 cents the federal government will give 75 cents toward treatment of selected cases of persons getting pensions who are partially blind in order to improve their eyesight. It is hoped to conclude arrangements with all provinces within the next few months.

learned here, as a result of anticipated jump in the price to be paid by the Special Products board of the Agricultural Department to producers effective July 1 for eggs. Though the Board buys only for export yet the export price governs the domestic price. In addition, about the same time housewives across Canada may be paying more for beef because not only is there a seasonal shortage of such animals but it is alleged many farmers are holding back cattle now under the belief that the embargo on shipping cattle to the U.S. would be lifted so that a much higher price may be obtained as a result of the prices now set by the British food contract for meat.

THE ANSWER IS NO

"Do your experts with respect to arthritis say that today they have any cure in the world for that disease?" asked an MP.

"No, I cannot say that they do," replied Health and Welfare Minister Martin.
